

ABSTRACT

A system and method to determine authentication priority between two or more devices is generally described.